"Stop the broadcasts, or someone will get hurt!"

Talk about hate mail! Justin and his friend, Rico, have just been thrust without warning onto the airwaves, doing play-by-play for the local baseball game. Justin's uncle has a low-power FM studio in the Way Station that blankets parts of Belize. But someone doesn't like the station's anti-drug message and wants to take the kids off the air. The window is shattered, antenna wires are cut, and mysterious radios play inside the walls. Where will it all end?

Meanwhile, Justin is losing touch with God.. His prayer life gets a shot in the arm from Hannah, the tall, blond, home-run-hitting center fielder, whose Mennonite dad wants to keep her back home on the farm. In the end Justin learns how important it is to maintain a consistent connection with God.

About the Justin Case Adventures

Meet Justin Case, a 12-year-old who never knows what adventure he'll stumble into next. So he keeps things handy. Scope. Walkie-talkies. Pencil and paper. You know, just in case. His father, Robert Case, a police officer turned journalist, often provides Justin with a chance to see and explore new territory--and that's when he often lands right in the middle of another adventure.

In each book, author Maylan Schurch, working closely with Guide editor Randy Fishell, presents a spiritual theme especially crucial to living in the last days and a creative Bible study which underlines the theme--both will help readers learn to love Jesus more. (A Pathfinder/Junior Book Club book.)
